Launch Campaign Send Hope Band to Regional Meeting

Drive for $226 Will Begin in Hope 8:30 Friday Morning

30-MINUTE PARADE Young Business Men and Chamber of Commerce to Canvass

A campaign to raise $226 to send the Hope High School band to Little Rock May 12 and 13 to participate in the regional contest among seven southern states will be launched in downtown Hope at 8:30 o'clock Friday morning, it was announced by Band Director Thomas Cannon and officials of the Band Auxiliary.

Mr. Cannon said that committees of the Young Business Men's association and the Hope Chamber of Commerce would canvass the downtown area in an effort to raise the fund in one day's time—Friday.

Any person or firm desiring to contribute to the fund may bring their donations to The Star office—if missed by the canvassing committee. All names of contributors will be published, along with the amount donated.

Parade at 8 a. m. The 50-piece high school band will stage a 30-minute parade in downtown Hope at 8 o'clock Friday morning. The band will assemble at First Baptist church and from that point will parade through the business section.

Following the parade, solicitors will begin their canvass. Solicitors are urged to report at The Star office at noon Friday in order that a tabulation may be made of the drive during the morning—for publication that afternoon.

Regional Contest The Hope High School band will compete against bands of seven states in the regional contest. These states are Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky and Oklahoma.

By taking ten first-places in the recent state band contest at Hot Springs, the Hope band as a unit and nine other first division winners became eligible to participate in the regional contest.

This is the first time in the history of Hope that the local high school band has been eligible to compete among regional contestants. The band as a unit and individual members eligible for the regional meet are:

Student Conductor—J. T. Luck. Drum Major—Mary Evelyn Whitworth. Cornet—Wallace Van Sickle. Clarinet—Thomas Kinser. Trombone—J. T. Luck. Alto Sax—Bill Rounton. Clarinet—Thomas Kinser. Bill Rounton. Dewell Dempsey. Luther Cramer. Jr. Woodwind Trio—Martha Ann Alexander, Dewell Dempsey, Marion Smith. Woodwind Quintet—Martha Ann Alexander, Marion Smith, Marjorie Dildy, Carolyn Barr, Wallace Beane.

Reservations Made Band Director Cannon announced Thursday that reservations had been made at the Albert Pike hotel in the capital city. He considered himself fortunate in view of the fact that the city will be crowded with many visiting bands.

Mr. Cannon said that all Little Rock hotels had a co-operative rate agreement for the band meet and that smaller hotel accommodations would have cost just as much as the Albert Pike reservations.

The approximate expense of sending the band to the regional two-day meet amounts to $426 of which $226 is to be raised through solicitation of supporters of the band. The city council has indicated that it will appropriate the other $200.

Repair Work for Saenger Theater

Cooling System Improved, New Lighting Equipment Installed

A general over-hauling of the exterior of the Saenger theater has been completed, Manager Remel Young, announced Thursday.

The cooling system has been stepped up to where it produces 3,000 cubic feet of water-cooled air per minute, which provides a constant flow of air through the show.

The lobby of the theater has been repainted and the exterior front repainted. White seat-covers have been put in place for the summer season. New lighting equipment has been installed, improving the vision, especially on technical films.

CRANIUM CRACKERS

Hidden Words The trick: to find two concealed words in each of the following:

1. Replace an "a" with an "o" in the paper court and get bric-a-brac.

2. Subtract the last letter from a word meaning "nest," and get a sudden squall.

3. Rearrange the letters in a synonym for "trick," then add an "h," and get a theater employee.

Answers on Page Two

Having grouped lending, welfare, and construction activities in new, unified agencies, President Roosevelt is now reported to be considering a similar regrouping of conservation bureaus; and the thing that is causing the row is the suggestion that the Forest Service may be taken out of the Department of Agriculture and placed in the Interior Department—along, it is hinted, with the Department of Commerce's Bureau of Fisheries.

Involved in the row are not merely the usual bureaucratic elements which can be counted on to raise a howl whenever the established order is tampered with, but also some highly important business interests which fear that the transfer would work to their disadvantage.

Rivalry Is Heated A year ago the same transfer was in the wind. At that time the Forest Service People objected strenuously to the change, however, were the objections from the lumber and grazing people of the west. All that was actually proposed at that time was the changing of the name of the Interior Department to the Department of Conservation; but it was taken for granted that if this happened it would be followed by transfer of the Forest Service, and although the name-changing bill passed the Senate it was allowed to die in the House.

Complicating the proposition is the fact that some of the sharpest rivalry in the whole government service is that which exists between the Forest Service and the National Park Service of the Interior Department.

As the names imply, Forest Service has charge of the national forests and Park Service has charge of the national parks. Practically all of the national parks are either surrounded entirely by national forests or are bordered by them. Each outfit rangers, its own foresters, its own fire-fighters—and its own set of rules and regulations.

Lumber companies may not touch the trees in the national parks. In the national forests, however, lumbering is permitted, under careful regulation. Commercial grazing is not permitted in national parks but it (under regulation) in the forests. Water power in the national parks is not available to exploitation but is in the forests.

The business interests which have permits to use these resources in the national forests fear that if the transfer is made, the same sort of rules which now govern the national parks will eventually govern the national forests; that no lumber or grazing will be allowed and that the water resources will be withdrawn from public use. Naturally enough, they are, pretty strongly, opposed to the change.

Transfer Would Be Ickes Victory Nor does the Forest Service like the idea. The rivalry between the two organizations is something like that which infects the enlisted personnel of the navy and the marine corps. It extends all the way to the rangers and fire-fighters out in the field. Consequently when the shift is mentioned it is inevitable that a certain amount of pressure is put on Congress to prevent it.

If the transfer does go through, Secretary Harold Ickes will have gone a long way toward making the Interior Department a department of conservation—whether the name is actually changed or not.

Ickes' theory is that the department ought to be primarily a department for the physical administration and husbanding of the nation's physical resources. If the idea of conservation is to be developed, he feels, there ought to be one government official accountable for it, so that responsibility for any failure of conservation anywhere could immediately be placed on one person.

The reorganization steps already taken have helped him indirectly, in that they have helped off a couple of non-conservation activities from his department. The Office of Education has been lifted out and given to the new Federal Security Agency, and the responsibility for managing and maintaining public buildings has been handed to the Federal Works Agency.

If he gets the Forest Service, he will practically have his long-dreamed-of department of conservation.

But before he gets it there is likely to be a protracted row.

One queer factor is that the Forest Service was originally a part of the Interior Department. It was transferred to Agriculture under President Taft, and has remained there ever since.

Pope Co. Treasurer Resigns, Is Short

$6,121 Shortage Is Charged Against Treasurer J. T. Murphy

LITTLE ROCK—Comptroller J. O. Goff filed Thursday an audit report charging J. T. Murphy, who resigned Wednesday as Pope county treasurer, owed $6,121.57 on his accounts April 29.

Accepting the resignation, Governor Carl Bailey said he would appoint Fay L. Price to the office.

Treasurer Resigns J. T. Murphy of Pope county submitted his resignation to Governor Bailey Wednesday, shortly after it became known a comptroller's office audit of his accounts showed a shortage of approximately $6,121. He had been treasurer since January 1, 1937. The audit was to be filed Thursday.

New Improvements, Construction Work to Be Inspected

The county-wide Better Homes Tour Committee, composed of George Ware, chairman, Mrs. Leon Bundy, Mrs. Eric Turner, Mrs. J. L. Eley, and Oliver L. Adams have completed plans for the tour to be held on Friday, May 5, according to the announcement made by Miss Melva Bullington, county Better Homes chairman.

Everyone wishing to make the tour should meet at the city hall in Hope by 9:15 a. m. Friday. People in the southern part of the county should be at the home of Oscar Rider near Patmos.

The group will leave the city hall at 9:30 a. m. and the first stop will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Rider to see home-made furniture which has been made by Mr. Rider.

The second stop will be at the Bert Keith home in Patmos where the group will see a bathroom with complete plumbing using the gravity system, and the home of Mrs. John Wallace.

The third stop will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Urrey in the Majors community where the group will view the landscape job and Butane gas system which the Urreys have just installed.

The fourth stop will be at the Girl Scout cabin at the Fair park in Hope. This is a log structure with many rustic features.

Visit Station Farm The group will continue on and go to the community house at the Fruit and Truck Branch Experiment Station which is located in the lower park where the tourists will have a picnic lunch. After lunch and inspection of the community building the group will continue the tour to the Youmans' Iris gardens in Emmet.

The next stop will be at the W. T. Farberry home at Deanyville. This modern home built of materials off the farm and is wired. It has a complete bath.

For miles Yarberry's the tourists will continue at the E. E. Steed home in the Wallaceburg community which was built under the Tenant Purchase Plan out of the Farm Security Administration. This house has nice room arrangements and pine panel walls.

The next stop will be at the Glen Eley home in McCaskill. This is the new home on Highway 24 which has all modern conveniences.

From the Eley home the group will visit the C. A. Hamilton home to view a landscape job. This is on the McCaskill-Ozan road.

At Ozan the group will visit the H. O. Stuart home to see a kitchen which is built on what was once the back porch. The cabinets in this kitchen were built from materials, utilizing two old kitchen cabinets and other lumber about the place.

The last stop will be at the Paul Dunley home in Washington where a bathroom and other conveniences will be seen.

Everyone should bring a picnic lunch as there will not be time out for lunch. Persons interested in making the tour who do not have transportation should contact a member of the tour committee or the Home Demonstration Agent.

Improvements made in Other Communities follow:

Bruce Chapel Approximately 40 homes in the Bruce Chapel community are of native materials and built with home labor. Following is the story of the W. J. Kussingers:

Native materials and home labor have made possible a new house for Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kussinger in the Bruce Chapel community. The Kussingers have raised their house and recovered it. The four room house was made from oak logs.

The shingles for this house were made from oak lumber. The shingles were cut on the hives. An exchange of labor between Mr. Kussinger and neighbors reduced the cost of construction. Nails for the total job amounted to $3.65.

378-Million-Dollar Increase Is Likely for Farm Benefits

Senate Subcommittees Raises Amount Already Approved by the Lower House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 378-million-dollar increase in farm appropriations was approved Thursday by the senate agriculture subcommittee.

Chairman Russell, Georgia Democrat, of the senate group, said this amount had been added to the $35 million dollars voted by the house more than a month ago.

Russell said the senate group approved a 225-million-dollar increase for "parity payments," 113 millions additional for the administration's farm surplus removal program, 25 millions additional for the farm tenancy act, and 15 millions additional for other Department of Agriculture activities.

British Welcome Barter WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Byrnes, South Carolina Democrat, said Thursday that London had advised the United States that Great Britain is interested in negotiating a barter agreement for American cotton.

Byrnes recently outlined a plan by which this country would barter surplus cotton for rubber and time held by Great Britain and other countries.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Uncle Sam's mounting defense bill received another boost Thursday when the house appropriations committee recommended a $770,473,241 appropriation for the navy, including funds to start construction of 23 new warships and 500 airplanes.

Leaders arranged to bring the measure up for debate immediately but said final action would be deferred until Monday.

Although the committee cut $19,956,212 from budget estimates, the huge supply bill still carried $12,875,047 more than the navy's current appropriation.

Apart from the direct appropriations recommended, the bill also would empower the navy to negotiate contracts totaling $20,708,050.

Issue to Depend on Beck's Speech, Germans Declare

Polish Foreign Minister Will Make Declaration on Friday

DANZIG TO BE GOAL

Nazis Threatening to March Immediately If Beck Is Stubborn

BERLIN, Germany.—(AP)—A diplomat with an intimate knowledge of the German situation expressed the conviction Thursday that the "tone" of Polish Foreign Minister Joseph Beck's speech Friday would decide whether war fears would again be lifted from Europe for the time being or whether Adolf Hitler would take almost immediate action against the Free City of Danzig and the Polish Corridor.

If Beck is moderate and leaves the door open for negotiations between Germany and Poland, this source predicted, the specter of war once more will have been banished.

British and Italian diplomacy, it is believed in reliable quarters, are urging Polish statesmen to make every concession compatible with national dignity.

The diplomat gave the opinion that if Beck disregards warnings and delivers an uncompromising speech German troops may be expected to march against Danzig almost immediately.

Chamberlain and Commons LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain urged the House of Commons Thursday to enact a military training bill, estimating conscription would give the government "something in the neighborhood of 500,000 men altogether" over a three-year period.

Chamberlain spoke as Labor reiterated its opposition to conscription, and as British attention turned toward Poland and Soviet Russia.

The sudden resignation of Maxim Litvinoff as Soviet Russia's foreign affairs commissar cast doubt on the results of British-French efforts to bring Soviet Russia into the new security system.

The British Labor party and Trades Union Council issued a joint statement announcing their decision to oppose the government's move to conscript 20-year-old youths. Chamberlain announced that conscription would not apply to Ireland.

Japs Raid Chungking SHANGHAI, China.—(AP)—Japanese warplanes Thursday raided Chungking, China's war-time capital, for the second consecutive day. Chinese dispatches estimated civilian casualties from 800 to 1,000.

Russians Feared Lost LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—The impression of London diplomatic quarters Wednesday night was that displacement of Maxim Litvinoff as Soviet foreign affairs commissar might be disastrous to British-French efforts to win Soviet Russia into an alliance.

It was believed generally that Litvinoff had favored alliance with Britain and France.

Last September, during the Czechoslovak crisis, Litvinoff tried to form an anti-aggressor front with nations of western Europe. Only a few weeks ago he suggested a conference in Bucharest where interested powers could take common action against Fascist and Nazi expansion.

His displacement was considered to have special significance since it came soon after he had agreed to meet Viscount Halifax and Georges Bonnet, British and French foreign ministers, in Geneva May 15 in an effort to break the deadlock in British-Soviet negotiations.

Litvinoff's retirement aroused lively speculation in Parliamentary circles as the news reached London while Commons was still in session. Many members expressed regret that Litvinoff was out since he was regarded as a friend of Britain.

Some observers voiced apprehension, especially in view of the fact that Adolf Hitler, who frequently has made bitter attacks on Soviet Russia, made no mention of Moscow in his Reichstag speech April 28.

Biggest of All Markets Is Being Neglected

Attention to markets for the national production, has of late been so centered on the foreign outlets that very significant report of the Social Security Board has gone almost without notice.

This report shows clearly, from figures about which there can be no dispute, that the purchasing power of the average American wage-worker is sadly below what it should be. Wages credited to the old-age insurance accounts of more than 30,157,694,366.241, an average of $890.

Even if this figure had included all wages paid to these workers, even wages above $3000 (not covered by the act), the average would have been only $975. Only three percent of the workers received over $3000, and against this must be balanced some $3000-or-better incomes received from more than one employer, which do come under the act.

So it is fair to conclude that more than 30,000,000 workers worked throughout 1937 (a better year than 1938) for $890 apiece.

In as much as social workers are unanimous that a family needs $2000 a year to live in ordinary health and comfort; it is all too plain why surpluses of basic commodities pile up.

People just can't afford to buy them.

It is unlikely that the average of the remainder of employed workers is higher than those covered; for those not covered include farm and service workers, whose cash income is notoriously small.

Now there is a market worth developing! Thirty million Americans whose income is less than $900 a year! What would they consume, what milk could they drink, what cotton could they wear, if that income could be raised even to $1500 instead of $890?

Such a move does not necessarily imply quick or arbitrary rises in hourly or weekly wages rates. Many of the people who received the pitifully small average income of $890 undoubtedly work on impressive hourly and weekly rates. But they don't work enough weeks, or enough days to have received a decent income at the end of the year.

For instance, 4,412,090 employees in 1937 received total wages of less than $90. That doesn't mean that they are receiving less than $2 a week; it obviously means that they worked only a few weeks of the year.

One hears talk of the "great Chinese market" which bought just short of $500,000,000 worth of our goods in 1937.

What is it worth the possibilities of increasing this 26-billion-dollar income of our own lowest-paid people to say 50 billions?

At a time when foreign complications are demanding our attention so insistently, we must not forget the really big market which is at the same time our greatest national problem.

Recent Smallpox Outbreaks Bring Warning on Value of Vaccination

Recent outbreaks of smallpox in several American cities indicate the necessity for new attention to vaccination of children against this disease. Two varieties of smallpox—one mild, the other severe—are now seen here and there in the United States.

A recent 1937-1938 indicates the value of compulsory vaccination. There were 13 states with a population of 41,836,000 people, which have compulsory vaccination.

In these 13 states there were 238 cases of smallpox each year, which means about one case for every 200,000 people.

In 14 states the question of vaccination is left to the local communities. These 14 states have a population of 37,725,000 people. They have 1292 cases every year or almost seven cases for every 200,000 people.

There are 22 states in which vaccination is not compulsory. These 22 states have a population of 44,367,000 people. They have 6043 cases per year or about 28 cases for every 200,000 people.

Certainly this should indicate the importance of compulsory vaccination as a means of preventing smallpox.

Smallpox is a foul disease. Once it was so frequent that the rare person in any community was the one without scars on his face from this disease.

Today it is rare to see a person with such scars. They must be taken as a manifestation of ignorance or stupidity either on the part of the person concerned or on the part of those responsible for him.

About 10 to 14 days after a person has been exposed to smallpox he has chills, high temperature, vomiting, aches and pains.

The characteristic eruption appears about the third day of the sickness. It consists of blisters and red spots. Each of the blisters becomes filled with an offensive infected material called pus.

Certainly anyone who will take a chance on such a disease by failing to have children vaccinated shortly after they are one year old, again when they enter school and again after approximately 10-year periods, is manifesting ignorance or stupidity, or both.

The number of stock sheep in the North Atlantic states dropped from a peak of 9,627,000 in 1897 to 870,000 in 1939.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM LATEST BOOKS

Rise and Fall of Conversation

From Loren Carroll's lively book, "Conversation, Please... A Clinic for Talkers" (Bobbs-Merrill: $1.75) The number of words we speak every day runs up to a fabulous total. On an average most of us speak 25 to 30 thousand. On certain days, of course, we talk less than others.

Take a woman about to ask her husband for a drink. "My dear, what's likely to sink as low as 5000 a day (ill the matter?" When he catches on, it reminds him of the time he didn't speak a word from breakfast until the hour he had fixed to ask the boss for a raise.

But a drink on the back or a raise in the pocket is likely to raise the daily total as high as 50,000 words. Other occasions that may lift the output to a 50,000 level are operations, cocktail parties, trips to a psychiatrist, a scandal in the neighborhood.

Again, occupations and religious affiliations have something to do with the daily wordage. Quakers talk less than members of Ethical Societies.

Try talking about ethics and see what a fancy total you can run up. Night watchmen talk less than senographers.

Just as individuals fluctuate, so does the nation. A week of rain, as the industrial scientists have discovered, slows down everything... But on the other side of the picture, the American total is probably quitted during an election campaign or the football season. What the national total is after Hitler makes a speech or a movie star threatens to read her diary in court, only God and Dr. Gallup can tell.

We spend an incredible part of our energy in conversation. If it is so important, why do we pay so little attention to it?

Japanese custom honors the "spirit" of a needle, after the instrument is outworn. The needle is embedded in a soft cake which becomes its last resting place.

Springer, secretary, Mrs. George Newbern. In the county of mothers present, Mrs. Renfro's room gave the majority. A social hour followed with the teachers as hostesses.

Hope chapter, 328, O. E. S., will hold its regular meeting at 8 o'clock Thursday night at the Masonic hall. A full attendance is urged.

A marriage marked by unusual beauty and one of outstanding interest to a large circle of relatives and friends was that of Miss Mary Jett

Orton, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jett Orton of Fulton and Lamar Cox, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Cox of Hope. The ceremony was performed at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Union church at Fulton. The church was a bower of beauty; a double arch covered with amaranth and fern fronds formed an effective setting for the nuptial service. Tall floor baskets filled with white gladioli and seven branched candelabra with white tapers completed the lovely decorations which were entirely in green. The impressive ring service was read by Dr. John Williams, pastor of the Presbyterian church in Washington, in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

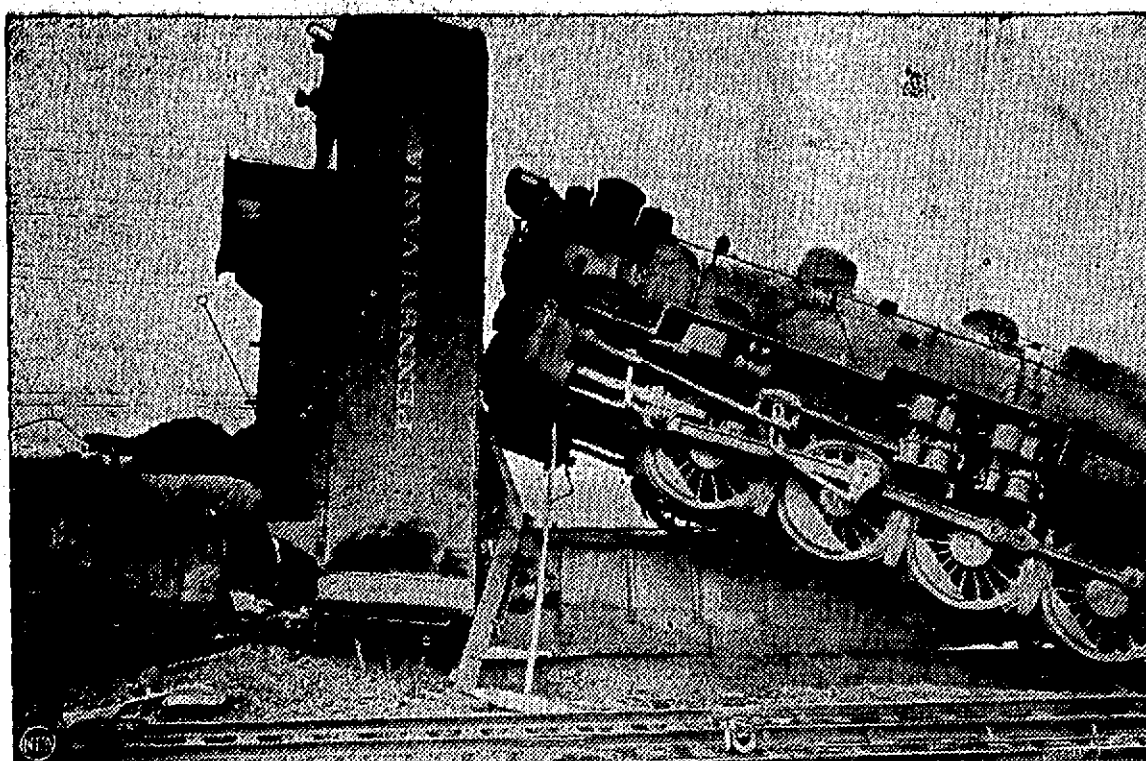

The ribbon bows were marked with bows of white ribbon and clusters of small white roses. Mrs. J. E. Leikang of Fulton played the wedding music preceding the ceremony and accompanied Billy Orton who sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly," the candles were lighted by Miss Mary Lou Harkness of Fulton and George Orton, brother of the bride. Miss Harkness wore a floor length gown of tea rose net, and Master George Orton wore Palm Beach.

The strains from Lohengrin announced the approach of the bride party. The groom entered with his best man, Charles Dana Gibson and the ushers entered singly down the center aisle and were followed by the bridesmaids, who also walked singly. The ushers were Hamilton Hanes, George Ware and Ed T. Wayne. The brides attendants were Miss Martha Humphreys of Pine Bluff and Miss Helen Morgan of Rayville, La., classmates of the bride, they wore period frocks of tea rose net and carried bouquets of pink roses tied with aqua velvets, with perukes of aqua velvet ribbons as head dress. The Matron of honor Mrs. Max Bishop of Ashdown, cousin of the bride wore Ivory net period gown and carried Tulliam roses. Miss Jane Orton of Hope, who served her cousin as maid of honor, wore a period frock of aqua net and carried pink rose buds. Little Misses Nancy Shultz and Sue Burrus of Ashdown, flower girls, were attired in frocks similar to the bridesmaids, with a tea rose hair adornment.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father, who gave her in marriage. She was lovely in a model of white silk net and lace, fashioned with a sweetheart neck line, short puffed sleeves, blouson lace medallions dotted the dress and veil of illusion falling the entire length of the long train. Her veil was arranged as coronet held with real orange blossoms on either side. Her flowers were a shower of brides' roses and valley lilies, she wore a string of pearls, given her by an aunt.

An informal reception followed at the home of the bride, where the guests were received by the bride and her parents, Mrs. Orton's gown was of black chiffon, with a corsage of pink rose buds, while Mrs. Cox chose a gown of navy lace with a corsage of pink roses, her hat was a lighter shade of blue. The wedding cake was cut and served with fruit punch. Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Cox departed on a motor wedding trip to points south, and upon their return they will be at home at 514 South Elm street.

The bride is a member of one of Hempstead county's oldest families, is a graduate of Fulton High school and attended the State University, and for the past year has been a member of the Fulton Public School Faculty. She traveled in a navy sheer with a light wool navy coat, with matching accessories. Her corsage was of orchids.

Mr. Cox after graduating from the Hope High School entered the Arkansas School of Pharmacy and after graduation took post graduate work in Baylor School of Pharmacy in Waco, Texas. He is now associated with his father in the John P. Cox Drug Co. of this city.

Mrs. Frank Hearn has returned from a visit in Movingsport, La., and Galveston, Houston and Texas City, Texas.

Plans Completed

Lumber from the farm. The home has been landscaped.

Timber sawed on the halves, has made possible home improvements by Mr. and Mrs. Willie Wilson of the Sweet Home community. The timber used was cut from a tract of land needed for planting corn this spring. Three new rooms have been added and two porches, five doors and twelve windows.

All doors and windows have new casings. In the kitchen, Mrs. Wilson has a new built in kitchen cabinet made from scrap lumber at a nominal cost in labor. Two extra windows have been added in the kitchen to give needed light and a flue has also been built in the kitchen. A new clothes closet has been built in each of the three bedrooms. In making all these improvements, to date $10 is the total amount which has been spent for labor.

Allen Community The Allen community on the Hope-Elevens road has featured home grounds work the past three years. During 1938 and 1939, outstanding improvements have been the building of a community church on the Schooley property. The church was built with private funds and painted with funds which the Allen community won at the county fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Schooley have landscaped their yard using foundation shrub screening and have improved their driveway. They also have a new barn.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Urrey of the Allen community have concentrated on landscape work around their home and store which is in one building. The grounds were first cleared of all rubbish, then leveled and disked. The next job was to fertilize using much from the woods, barnyard manure and commercial fertilizer.

They had first to separate the public grounds in front which were with the store from the private grounds in the back which would be used for the family for both pleasure and service. Foundation shrubs around the building include Nandina, Arbutus, Abelia, Wax Leaf Ligustrum, Euonymus, clematis and spirea. These shrubs make possible something green around the building the year round. Privet has been set out about half-way back on the grounds to be used as a screening in making the back yard private.

Other improvements have been the tearing down of an unsightly building.

Barrymore Enters Suit for Divorce

Accuses His Wife and Her Mother of Conspiring Against Him

NEW YORK.—(AP)—John Barrymore brought court action Wednesday against Elaine Barrie, his actress-wife, asking a separation and accusing her of conspiring with her mother, Mrs. Edna Jacobs, and financial adviser, David Fisher, to "defraud and deceive" him. He demanded an accounting of $300,000.

His suit claimed that the three defendants had been given power, under an agreement of 1935 to use his funds in the purchase of property for him, and that they had refused to turn over to him "any balance thereof remaining in their possession, and the property purchased and acquired."

Containing that he had been unable to obtain accountings for the money and property, Barrymore listed these as among the items acquired: A house at Bel Air, West Los Angeles; two Packard automobiles, works of art, statuettes, paintings, rugs, books, manuscripts, furniture, pianos, guns, fishing tackle, furs, wearing apparel.

Barrymore is in the West with a touring comedy, "My Dear Children." Miss Barrie—who is 33 years junior to his 37—left the show last Saturday in St. Louis to seek a divorce. She declined to discuss his action.

His attorney, Maurice Hatcher, said the actor had told him this in a telephone conversation from Omaha:

"In every other divorce proceeding brought against me by my (three) previous wives, I have always, out of a sense of chivalry, not contested these suits. But this is different. This time I am taking the initiative."

Since their singular public courtship of some four years ago—which saw Miss Barrie pursuing the actor across the country by plane and suggesting to him by radio, that he wait for her—there have been many difficulties.

One of these led, in April of 1937, to a Los Angeles divorce which later was set aside.

$6,000 Loan Made to Help Livestock

Bang's Disease Control Program to Be Resumed at Once

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—Governor Carl E. Bailey came to the aid of Arkansas' $40,000,000 livestock industry with a $6,000 loan from his emergency fund to bring about a resumption of the Bang's disease control program, discontinued Saturday.

The government withdrew its forces from the field Saturday due to failure of the state to match the federal contribution and a committee of stockmen appealed to Bailey for help.

The $6,000 will be used to carry on the program until June 30, end of the fiscal year. Shortly before that date, Bailey indicated he would transfer a balance of about $20,000 in the emergency fund for the same use.

Dr. A. W. Rice, inspector for the United States bureau of animal husbandry, advised Bailey that the advancement of the state funds would re-establish the program immediately. State Veterinarian C. D. Stubbs informed the governor that the $6,000 would be sufficient to carry on for the next two months on the basis of $10 indemnity payments to owners of diseased cattle who separate them from their herds.

Bailey said that if contributory funds were received from counties, municipalities or livestock associations, it would be possible to raise the indemnity rate.

Effective July 1, the government will put up $2 for every $1 provided by the state. Work during the past two years has resulted in 47 of the 75 counties being certified as disease-free.

Nearly two-thirds of the nation's total area of 1,907,000,000 acres exclusive of city and water territory is affected in some degree by erosion.

Only Question Seems to Be How Far Johnstown Will Run Away From Field

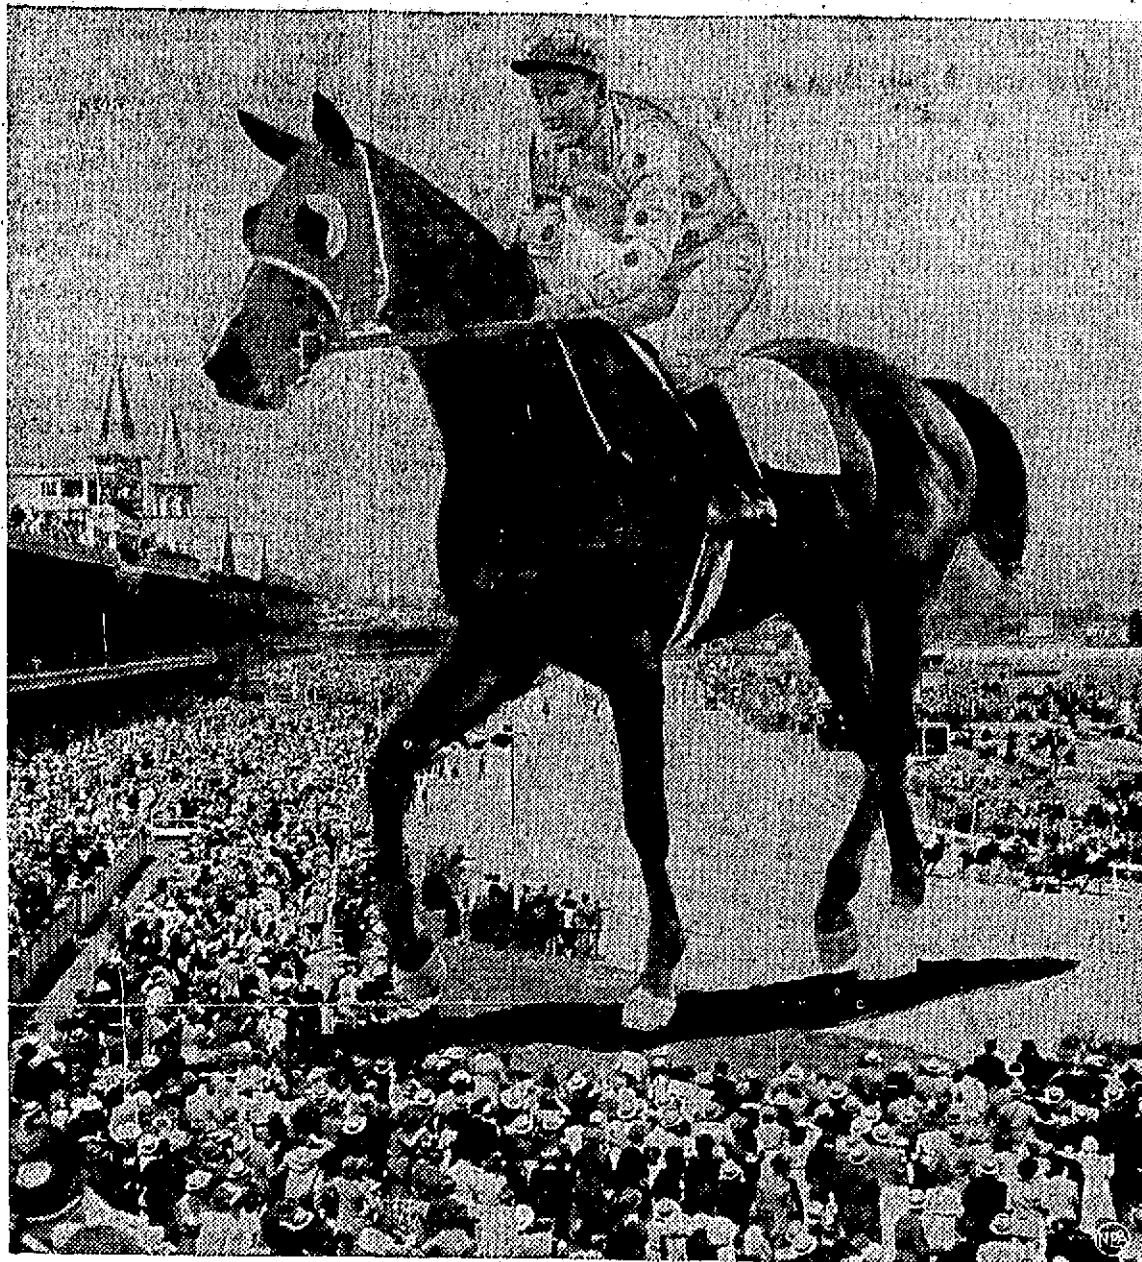

By BILL BRACHURER
NEA Service Sports Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky.—A horse race is always a guess, and this year's Kentucky Derby—the 64th since Aristides scooped under the wire to win the first one in 1875—is no exception.

The guessing this year, however, is different. What the turf world is trying to figure out this time is which horse in the small field will pursue Johnstown under the wire and how close will it be?

Kentucky received the news from Jannin last Saturday with mingled feelings. Many hopes of the hard-boiled were blasted when William Woodward's long-string boy made a show of his field to win the Wood Memorial. But Johnstown, though labeled the "cast's hope," is one of the Blue Grass' own children.

Down here, where a racing form is the established breakfast table paper, the chart of the Wood has been studied with the same zeal that a Wall Street pursues stock tables.

And when the usually conservative form reporter, describing the Wood, wrote, "Johnstown, a real high class race horse, broke on his toes, began to move up at the far turn, took the lead at the end of six furlongs and just galloped along, winning with his rider looking back," Kentucky understood.

Johnstown dominates the Downs.

First Odds-On Choice Since Twenty Grand

Johnstown's demonstration of superiority in the Wood and other races this spring make it likely that the colt will go to the post here Saturday as the first odds-on favorite since 1931, when Twenty Grand, the big Green-tree Gravy Train, won in 2:01 4/5, a new record for America's mile-and-a-quarter classic.

El Chico, unbeaten two year old champion of 1938, experienced bad racing luck in the Wood. William Ziegler's little candidate didn't extend himself after Nick Wall was forced to take up the son of John F. Grier after he had been bumped and nearly knocked to his knees going into the paddock turn.

But few, if any, expect El Chico to run as fast or as far as Johnstown as Churchill Downs.

Off his six-furlong victory at the Downs on Saturday, in which he overcame hindrances, Technician, the west's hope, may be the second sprinter.

Trainers: Swishes Accept Johnstown as Champion

Challenged, the hot thing of several weeks ago, lost caste when he ran third to Gilded Knight in Maryland, but Louis Schaefer has perked the colt up considerably since then, and he must be listed among the contenders, though I doubt that the former jockey who trains the son of Challenger-Laura Gal is counting upon him to match Johnstown.

Heatherbrook, a Sande-trained galloper, well thought of since a sparkling victory at Keeneland, is regarded as just one of the field since Johnstown's arrival on the scene. Silent Witness, Lightspur, T. M. Dorsett, if indeed they start.

Trainers and swishes, men who look upon horses with an expert eye, accept Johnstown just as they accepted War Admiral two years ago, and the other favorites in the years before him, as "the class of the race," the "sound horse," the "one they will have to beat."

Bay Colt Makes Owner Forget Fighting Fox

Johnstown's owner, William Woodward, has won two derbies—with Gallant Fox and Omaha. The master of Belair stud, and a leading figure in the Jockey Club, hopes that the son of Jamestown-La France wipes out the memory of Fighting Fox's bad race in last year's derby.

Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons is confident that Johnstown will.

There has been a rush to the stud book since Johnstown began winning races this year. There are interesting notes in the big bay's family tree. His dam, La France, was by Sir Gallahad III, sire of Gallant Fox, among others of recent bright memory. The dam of Jamestown, sire of Johnstown, was Mile, Dazie, by Fair Play, sire of Man o' War.

Johnstown was bred by A. B. Hancock, of the Claiborne stud at Paris, Ky., where Gallant Fox, Omaha, Sir Gallahad III, Alcazar and other great Belair horses now make their home.

Camden Grid Schedule Calls for 12 Games

CAMDEN, Ark.—Camden High School's football squad, largest in the history of the school, will close its two-week spring practice season with an intra-squad game Thursday.

Because the Panthers will play 12 games next fall, meeting some of the state's best teams, Coach Sam Coleman refused to make any prediction other than the evasive comment: "We will offer two things—a field to play on and a stadium to sit on."

The Panthers will play North Little Rock for the first time and will resume their rivalry with Prescott after a lapse of several years. The schedule follows:

September 15—Smackover here.
September 22—Nashville here.
September 29—Prescott here.
October 6—Texarkana there.
October 12—Malvern there.
October 20—Pine Bluff here.
October 27—Hope here.
November 3—Hot Springs here.
November 10—North Little Rock there.
November 17—Fordyce there.

It Seems Americans Are Bit Too Quick on "Bottoms Up"

DENVER—With the big summer royalty parade under way, here's a tip for garden variety American citizens:

Don't drain your wine glass when a toast has been proposed to the kinfolk of the titled visitors.

Nine chances out of ten the royalty will turn around with only a sip gone and make a toast right back for the U. S.

Most embarrassing moment of the visit of Prince Frederik and Princess Ingrid of Denmark to Denver was the toast incident.

Quite a few persons enthusiastically downed their wine with whisky-jigger technique when Gov. Ralph Carr, at the evening's banquet, proposed they drink to the health of the King of Iceland and Denmark.

They gulped water or pantomimed with empty glasses a moment later when the Prince said a word for President Roosevelt and made a toast.

Otherwise, American citizens, unaccustomed as they are to royalty, did pretty well with their conduct in the West's preview of the summer royalty parade. Manners fit for royalty, learned in theory, stood up pretty well under the pressure of practicality.

There was the little incident, however, at Brush, Colo., of the train crew that knew Prince Frederik was a railroad fan (he had asked at Salt Lake City to drive a locomotive). The crew wanted to impress him with their efficiency. They fumbled signals, started away with a rush and left the royal pair standing on the platform. They producer in the Stamps-Lewisville area of Lafayette county, was drilling ahead Wednesday afternoon at 2,490 feet, while some reports credited the first well, the same operators' Patten No. 1, with making as high as 50 barrels per hour, when opened up.

However, regular production is 75 barrels per day, on 2 1/8 inch choke, with 320 pounds casing pressure and 125 pounds tubing pressure.

Another 2,000-barrel storage tank has been set at the lease.

An outlet for the oil seems to be in prospect, with plans for trucking from the lease to tank cars at Lewisville.

Production level of the first well is 3,481 feet, from the Hill sand.

NATURAL CHILEAN NITRATE OF SODA

THE NATURAL SIDE DRESSER

If it's "natchel" it's right, Uncle Natchel believes, and that's a pretty safe way to judge anything.

Chilean Nitrate of Soda, the ideal side-dresser, is the only natural nitrate. Nothing takes its place as a side-dressing for cotton and corn. It supplies a natural nourishing lift, just when your crops need it most to grow and produce as they should.

Be sure you use Natural Chilean Soda. It costs no more. You can get it anywhere.

One Negro Held in Canfield Shooting

Admits Robbery of Store, But Denies Shooting of Two Clerks

EL DORADO, Ark. — (AP) — Deputy Sheriff Elmer Nelson announced Wednesday night that Otis Manning, 26-year-old Felsenthal negro, had confessed participation in the holdup Saturday night of a Canfield store in Hale, La., and Felsenthal, Ark., in three other robberies in Arkansas and Louisiana.

The officer said that the negro also admitted robberies at Plain Dealing and Hale, La., and Felsenthal, Ark., in recent weeks and named an accomplice. Authorities declined to name the other negro.

No charges were filed immediately against Manning. Authorities did not announce immediately what disposition would be made of him but indicated he might be held for trial here.

Nelson said that the prisoner had admitted "being alone" when a pair of negroes fled upon two city officers here April 8 but denied doing any shooting himself. The officers were not wounded in the fray.

The negro surrendered to Town Marshal John Perry of Huttig and was brought here for questioning.

Policeman Henry Fernald and M. D. Southall were fired upon when they cornered two negroes fleeing in a stolen automobile. The negroes escaped after abandoning the machine and fleeing on foot.

Officers had been on the lookout for Manning since it was reported that he returned to Felsenthal Monday.

The negro told authorities after his surrender that he knew that it was only a matter of time until they captured him and that he would "rather walk in than be brought in."

Nelson said Manning denied shooting either Ed Copeland, proprietor, or F. M. Steadley, Copeland's son-in-law, in the $300 holdup of the Canfield

Injunction Asked on New Beer Tax

Its Constitutionality Is Challenged in Suit at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — (AP) — Constitutionality of Act 310 of 1939, which referred to as the Nyberg consumers sales tax law applying to sales of beer and whisky, was attacked and an injunction asked to prevent its enforcement in a suit filed in Pulaski chancery court Wednesday.

The Nyberg law provides an increase of $3.50 a barrel on the tax on beer wholesalers, making the total tax $5 per barrel. It also places an additional three per cent tax on the wholesale price of liquor.

Under the act, beer retailers may pass on the tax by charging an additional one cent per bottle or 12-ounce glass of beer. Liquor stores may charge an additional two per cent.

Mike and Joe Calderara, as the Fallstaff Distributing company of Little Rock, brought the suit against State Revenue Commissioner Z. M. McCarrroll. They asked that he be enjoined from placing the act in force June 8.

Light Public Playgrounds

LONDON, (AP) — The National Fitness Council is aiming to turn night into day by floodlighting playgrounds and laying fields for the benefit of working people. In a report to 1,641 local authorities, the Council says that flood-lighting would not be costly or injurious to eyesight.

store, blaming his accomplice.

The negro reported that he and his companion hid in a "cottonseed house" at Canfield after the holdup and remained there until Sunday. He said that he left his companion at Camden.

A posse of more than 150 officers and citizens with bloodhounds hunted in vain for the holdup pair near Canfield Saturday night and Sunday.

SERIAL STORY BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday's safe out of sight of the Barro ranch, Sherry continued his wood cutting act, wondering if Betty loves him after she tells him that Hope had already proposed.

CHAPTER XXV

SHERIDAN STARR ceased being a Mexican woodcutter as soon as night settled over Mexico. "Betty Mary?" he called, when he felt it was safe to start again. "Yes," she answered instantly, from beneath the boxes in the burro cart.

"It's dark now. I think we can make a try for the river." "Can I actually come out of this? Goodness!"

"I apologize. I sure am sorry you had to stay there, but there was no way of knowing who might be observing us, or who."

"Don't, Sheridan! It is I who apologize. I owe you more than I can ever tell. I was not uncomfortable. I was just not comfortable."

She had crawled out, with his help, and stood near to smile up at him. "I was just scared!"

He squeezed her arm a little; and somehow this gesture conveyed more than a thousand words might have. She looked quickly up at him again. The big officer was anything but handsome now. He wore a scraggly set of gray whiskers, adroitly glued on. His normally black hair had been brushed with gray, too, especially around the temples. His high-crowned straw sombrero was frayed and torn. His clothing was very old and ragged.

But Betty Mary saw right through the convincing makeup, to the man she really knew.

"Sherry, she almost whispered it, tremulously.

"I just—I just want you to know I think you are grand! You and Hope. I am well aware that you risked your lives to rescue me."

"Shucks! We were just play acting. Skip it. Anyway, young woman, we aren't out of danger yet. We're still in Mexico."

"Play acting or not, it was wonderful. How did you know to make up that way? It's perfect."

"We didn't. There's a stock company on an El Paso stage. One of their actors helped us. Hope was dark and handsome enough to look like a Mex without much change. They had to cover up my mug, though. Come on, let's get going."

"What about the cart, and the burros?"

"Aren't worth $50. I've turned the burros loose to run wild."

To avoid suspicion, Sherry had driven his cart and Betty Mary parallel with the border, not toward it, so that they now were still more than three miles from the river. She knew they couldn't ride any further, lest some of Barro's agents detect them. They could be inconspicuous if they walked.

"I can carry you if you get foot weary," he told her. "These shoes you have were not made for walking in rocks and cactus thorns."

"They're better than the ragged sandals you have on. Anyway, I weigh a lot."

"I'll bet! He squeezed her arm again. "You ought to be playing dolls. Well, stay right behind me, and act dumb if anybody talks to us."

They saw only a few rural folk but no one accosted them, and after about an hour's walking they came to the Rio Grande. It looked heavenly to Betty not only because of its real beauty but because on the other shore lay the United States.

"It looks wide," she said. "I hope I am not too fatigued to swim that far."

Gallantly, then, Sherry stooped and picked her up in his arms and solemnly waded into the water. She thought it a very strange position in which to assist a girl in swimming, but she waited, trusting him. Before she realized it they were half way across. The water was just a little above his knees.

"Is the swimming—very hard, Mr. Starr?" she asked mockingly.

He chuckled, and held her a little tighter.

When he had put her down on the American shore, with a frank sigh of relief to be on his own soil again, he took off his whiskers and smiled down at her.

"It's the first and maybe the last chance I'll ever have to hold you in my arms," he declared simply.

They had crossed where some flags and willows grew, and they came at once into a farmer's cotton field. Another quarter-mile of walking brought them to a paved highway, and within 10 minutes they were in a filling station telephoning for a car to carry them home.

"There's one significant thing I must point out, Miss Jordan," Officer Starr said then, rather formally, "so you can use it when you report back to headquarters in Washington."

"What, Sherry? Although I'm not at all sure I shall ever make a report."

"It was that you and I waded right across the international boundary at 9 p. m., unmolested. If we can do it that easy, so can aliens. The boundary is 2000 miles long, and there aren't half enough officers allotted to guard it. What'd you mean about never making a report, though?" "I just feel that I may never go back to my job. I—I may stay here."

Sherry went a little glum at that.

TWICE today he had deduced from her talk that she might be in love with Hope Kildare. She had saved Hope's life in San Felipe canyon, and such drama can draw two people very close together.

The big fellow swallowed hard, and changed the subject. But gloom had settled on him. He talked very little more until they were back in El Paso, in serious conference with Hope himself.

"I had no trouble," Hope avowed then. "I drove the old rented truck right on into Juarez, across the bridge and into the American officers' hands. Of course they let me in when they recognized me—but they had some fun doing that. I'm sure glad you two made it safely."

They had to explain every detail, and then they had a new plan to effect. After all, Barro was still a threat, and they knew the plans he had for his crossing at New Channel.

"He may or may not change his place and his date," big Sheridan summarized, eventually. "He'll know that Betty Mary escaped, but he won't know how much she knows. Didn't you say that woman you talked to in his house, Betty Mary, was coming immediately to this side?"

"Yes," said Betty Mary.

"Then Barro won't know you talked to her. And she won't know you were a spy. And you didn't talk confidentially to any other servant or anybody, so Barro may conclude that you don't know his plan at all. Even if he did, he may go right on with his plan, thinking he is safe with that many men. He would be, too, if we weren't tipped off; a hundred armed estranjeros and smugglers—gosh!"

"This is Friday night," said Hope. "And he was to send the aliens across on Sunday night, but might change. Knowing he had a big force, we can get a big force too. We would simply have to know when and where on the border to expect him."

"That's certainly a fact!" Sheridan agreed. Then he added, thoughtfully, "But how can we know for sure?"

They were silent for a long moment, and then Hope Kildare replied:

"There's only one answer. One of us, in disguise, must go back to Mexico."

High School Meet Opens on Friday

Competition in Athletic Events Is Expected to Be Keener

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. — Alvin Bell will be the starter for the runs in the annual state high school track and field meet here Friday and Saturday. S. B. Sudduth, director of physical education at Henderson State College, is in general charge of the meet which is expected to be one of the largest ever held in the state.

So many schools have entered teams that the preliminaries on Friday are expected to keep the officials busy getting it completed on time. There are two divisions, A and B, to be run off. Sudduth will have the assistance of Coach Bill Walton of Ouchita and Coach Tom Murphy of Henderson and other college coaches in the state.

L. M. Goza, president of the association, said there were 79 schools with eligibles for the athletics A and B divisions. There are more than 100 schools with literary and music contestants. Combined, the number of contestants alone, not counting spectators, will total close to 500, it was said.

While Little Rock high rules the favorite, it is not expected the Tigers will come out with very many more points than such teams as Fort Smith and Russellville. President Goza said Northwest Arkansas schools will be prominent in both the athletic and the literary department of the meet. Few were present from that area last spring.

The contestants will find a fast track at Haygood stadium where workers gress adjourned before June 24, the date the 60-day period expires.

If adjournment occurred before that date, he said, the president would be forced to submit the plan again next year, and congress would have a new chance to vote on it. Congress is generally expected to remain in session for some time after June 24.

Wednesday's fight was one of the most unusual of the year, because Democrats were so confident of the results. The lopsided ballot showed that the Republicans were by no means unanimously opposed to the reorganization. Twenty-eight Republicans voted against the Taber resolution. No Democrats voted for it.

MIND Your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it gracious for a woman to suggest that another woman try such-and-such a shop, when she knows very well the prices are far beyond the other's reach?

2. Is it good manners for a young couple who haven't much money to keep pointing out the fact with such remarks as, "That's very well for you, isn't it?"

3. Is it inconsiderate for a guest in a strange city who has asked to be taken to the stores to complain to her hostess about what a poor place it is to shop?

4. Is it a good idea to belittle your possessions when a guest praises them?

5. Is it good manners for one person to start very obviously building up another when he is within earshot?

What would you do if—

(a) You find it necessary in the town in which you live to belong to organizations which do not greatly interest you—

(b) Explain to all your friends why you joined?

(c) As long as you are a member, don't belittle the club or organization?

Answers

1. No. It always sounds condescending or stupid.

2. No. It shows as much consciousness of money as bragging.

3. No. Very ungracious.

4. No.

5. No. It is bound to make him feel uncomfortable.

Mr. Price served as treasurer from January 1, 1933, to January 1, 1937. A member of the comptroller's office county audit staff said his books lacked only one cent of being in balance when he retired.

Judge Loses His Case, But Frees His Client

ALEXANDRIA, La. — (AP) — Federal District Judge Gaston L. Porterie acted as lawyer for a defendant, lost his case, then sentenced his "client" and suspended the sentence.

STAMP NEWS

PICTURED above is the design of the new U. S. 3-cent stamp which will be issued April 30 to commemorate the sesquicentennial of the inauguration of George Washington as the first President of the United States. It will be placed on first-day sale in New York and released throughout the country as soon after April 30 as distribution will permit.

The stamp will measure 84/100 by 1-44/100 inches; arranged vertically. It will be printed in purple ink by the rotary process and issued in sheets of 50.

The central motif depicts Washington taking the oath of office as the first President under the Constitution on the balcony of the Federal building in New York, April 30, 1789.

COLLECTORS desiring first-day cancellations of the new stamp may send a limited number of addressed covers, not more than 10, to the Postmaster at New York, with a cash or postal money order remittance to cover only the cost of the stamps required for affixing. Postage stamps will NOT be accepted in payment. Each cover should bear a pencil endorsement in the upper right corner to show the number of stamps to be attached.

Envelopes for covers should not be smaller than 3 by 6 inches and care should be exercised, since the stamp is of the special delivery size and arranged vertically, to allow ample space for affixing singles as well as blocks.

Reorganization of U. S. to Be Upheld

Republicans Join Democrats to Help Carry F. D. Carry Out New Law

WASHINGTON, (AP) — House Democrats, with some Republican help, gave President Roosevelt a virtual guarantee Wednesday that his first plan for reorganization of the government would become effective June 24.

They killed, 264, 128 a resolution by Representative Taber (Rep., N. Y.) to reject the plan, which provides for merging a score of government agencies into three new bureaus handling welfare, works and lending activities.

A presidential reorganization proposal becomes effective 60 days after the president submits it to congress, unless both houses disapprove. Representative Warren (Dem., N. C.), sponsor of the Reorganization Act, said that Wednesday's vote clinched victory for the president's first plan, unless con-ed to appear the judge said: "We'll have your trial and I'll take care of you."

At intervals during the trial the judge called the negro to the bench for consultation.

A jury found Williams guilty but recommended he be placed on probation.

Judge Porterie sentenced him to serve six months in jail, then suspended the sentence.

THREE SURE WAYS To Cut CAR EXPENSE

1. SAVE ON BILLS AND LOSSES CAUSED BY CARBON DEPOSITS
(Lion Naturalube Actually REMOVES Hard Carbon)

2. SAVE ON REPAIR BILLS CAUSED BY EXCESSIVE WEAR
(Lion Naturalube Has Stronger Natural Protective Film)

3. SAVE ON GASOLINE BILLS
(Lion Knix-Knox Gives More Miles Per Dollar)

HOW NATURALUBE SAVES BY REMOVING CARBON AND PREVENTING EXCESSIVE WEAR . . .

Lion Naturalube, the new-type motor oil, brings you the perfect combination for cutting car expense: (1) the ability to remove hard carbon deposits from pistons, rings, valves, and spark plugs—(2) a stronger natural protective-film. Unlike oils of other types, Naturalube does not cause power-loss and excessive gasoline consumption by forming hard carbon deposits. Because of its ability to remove hard carbon deposits, Naturalube restores power, reduces gasoline consumption and saves the cost of carbon removal jobs. Another important money-saving feature is Naturalube's stronger, natural protective-film which prevents excessive friction wear—the chief cause of expensive repairs.

HOW KNIX-KNOX GASOLINE SAVES BY GIVING GREATER MILEAGE

Lion's high-vacuum, precision controlled refining process removes all low-mileage elements. Every drop of Knix-Knox yields mileage. Knix-Knox gives more miles yet costs no more than ordinary gasoline.
